National Firearms Commerce and Trafficking Assessment (NFCTA) – Crime Gun Intelligence and Analysis – Volume 2

Published by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF), this report is a complete assessment of firearms dealings in the United States and the diversion of firearms to illegal markets. Volume I, "Firearms in Commerce," published in May 2022, focused specifically on the regulated firearms industry. According to the report, a crime gun is any firearm used or suspected to have been used in a crime.

This NFCTA volume is the first all-inclusive report to include crime gun information from so many sources – collectively known as "Crime Gun Intelligence" – used by ATF in more than 20 years. Included in this volume is a review of the Gun Control Act of 1968 (GCA) and its provisions. A list of Federal Firearms Licenses (FFLs) is included in this report in more detail than in the first volume. According to the report, GCA states that FFLs are required of those involved in the manufacture or sale of firearms in the United States. GCA also requires licensed firearms importers and manufacturers to engrave or cast serial numbers on their weapons, as well as other unique identifiers. These markings aid in solving and preventing firearms-related crimes. Data used in this report pertains to crime guns submitted to ATF for tracing and/or processed for ballistic and related evidence between 2017 and 2021.

...AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

RAMESH NYBERG

"Children: They have bad manners, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. They no longer rise when elders enter the room, they contradict their parents and tyrannize their teachers. Children are now tyrants."

So true, isn't it? Today's youth bewilders, frustrates and, sometimes, angers us to no end. Now, would you care to guess who wrote that quote at the beginning of this column? If you're trying to think of an American president or your mind is scanning the last few decades to try and pin down what social commentator or parent expert might have said it, give it up.

The quote comes from none other than Aristotle, somewhere around 470 BC.

It seems as though every generation worries that its culture is about to collapse because the "youth of today" is immersed in their own self-centeredness and ingratiation and cares little or nothing about anything beyond the tips of their own noses or, perhaps, the rectangular screen they cradle in their hand.

I will admit to grumbling and griping about youngsters who seem to have no interest whatsoever in this country's history; the sacrifices made in the name of their freedom; and the future of our nation. I, like many of you, want to scream when I see Antifa youth so mindlessly antagonizing innocent people on the streets of Portland and other cities. I fear for those teenagers whose only goal seems to be piercing, tattooing and coloring themselves into clownish states so profusely as to become unrecognizable. I, too, have wondered what it will take for this generation to recognize that there are good people in our world; that there are caring, competent, professional police officers on the streets protecting them while they sleep. I have groaned at the hatred for authority many teenagers suffer from, so much that they are attacking teachers in classrooms and posting vicious assaults on social media so they can rack up "likes" and "follows."

Is it hopeless? Is it irretrievable? Was Aristotle right – our kids are tyrants?

In this issue's column, allow me to offer a light at the end of this seemingly endless tunnel. As many of you know, I teach high school now (apparently, 27 years of law enforcement wasn't enough punishment). I will tell you that, as public schools go, I'm lucky. I teach at a magnet school with six "academies" incoming students can choose to enter. One of those, the "Legal and Public Affairs Academy," is where you'll find me. Because this is a magnet school, the caliber of kids we get is a cut above the "average" high school student in our county. I would attribute this to parent involvement; these students would not have had a chance to get in the school unless their parents had gone through the process of applying and attending the orientations and all the other hoops which must be jumped to get in. In all of the years that I've been teaching at this school – I have never seen as much as a fistfight in that time.

The kids aren't perfect, of course, and there are disciplinary problems; kids who fail classes and have to be expelled; and so on, but for the most part, this is an exceptionally well-behaved student body. When I first got to this school and started teaching criminal justice classes, I noticed the school had no mock trial team. So, in 2010, I started one. This year, the mock trial team, consisting of 14 students, began working hard in November when the state of Florida disseminated the case package to all interested schools. The state puts together a fictional case complete with detailed witness statements and evidence, and this year's case was a second-degree murder. Once schools receive the packet, they have about three months to practice before district competition. I'm writing this three days after my team went to competition against 20 other high schools.

I can't adequately describe what it is like to watch 14 students – some of whom knew little or nothing about the law when we started (we allow students from other academies to join the team) – dive into their roles and practice intensely, hour after hour, week after week, to hone their skills as lawyers and witnesses. By the time competition came up, I was a little worried, as a few of them looked ready, but others were still struggling to remember details. But, it was time: Competition – February 23rd and 24th – was upon us. On that first morning, the students – all dressed in suits and looking sharper than ever – boarded a bus and headed downtown where the competition took place.

When it was our turn to do our opening statement, I was just floored. The girl who gave the prosecution opening was so good that I wanted to stand up and cheer, but, as the sponsor, I had to sit quietly at the back of the room and keep a lid on my admiration. The rest of that day and all through the second day, these kids just continued to “wow” me. The teams we went up against were equally well prepared and performed with astonishing poise and professionalism. As the sponsor for their team, I hosted our rehearsals and training in my classroom twice a week after school. I didn’t “train” them, but I did offer guidance and answered their questions as best as I could. I’m not an attorney, but I’ve worked with enough of them throughout my career, even flirting with the idea of going to law school after I retired.

The students never had to be encouraged to work hard. They took their packet home, practiced with each other on weekends, and were still rehearsing in the bus on the way to competition. Seeing them perform at such a high level, with such passion and intensity, was nothing less than fascinating. The judges at competition were all lawyers. One of them was judging for the first time. During the critique that is done at the end of each round, he looked at our students and shook his head.

“I’m just blown away. You guys did better than some real attorneys I’ve seen in the courtroom and I’m not kidding. I’m so impressed with you. Congratulations on your hard work.”

At the end of competition, we didn’t make the final four who will go on to the next round of state competition, but we smiled when we saw the winners hugging, screaming and crying when their team was announced. On the bus home, the kids were happy. There was no disappointment because their hard work, training and emphatic embrace of these often difficult rules and procedures taught them so much.

“Thank you, Mr. Nyberg,” they told me. “We’ve learned so much.”

“Yes, you have,” I told them. “And what you’ve learned about mostly is yourselves.”

There are some young people who cause us despair and worry about the future. But, when I think of my mock trial kids, I see leaders, winners and young people willing to work to make a positive difference in themselves, in their justice system and in their nation.

There is hope. P&SN

NEW GUNS & GEAR

for 2023

The new ambidextrous Photon holster can be worn both IWB and OWB, accommodates aftermarket lights and features an optic cutout.

Alien Gear

One of the bigger trends in weaponry has been the introduction and proliferation of small pistols suitable for plainclothes and off duty carry. Just about all of the major manufacturers are now turning out subcompact and micro pistols and they now dominate the niche once held by snub revolvers. If that wasn't enough, there is now a wide range of red dot sights, illuminators and lasers which can be affixed to these pistols to give them greater capabilities.

This has created quite the challenge for holster manufacturers to turn out models which not only accommodate a wide range of popular pistols, but also accessories of varying dimensions which can be mounted on the rail. Alien Gear has solved that riddle and their new Photon holster effectively addresses that issue.

Alien Gear claims that the new Photon is the most versatile holster on the market and they may not be too far off the mark. This ambidextrous design can be configured for either inside or outside the waistband carry, and can accommodate a wide range of weapon mounted lights. An optic cut is standard with the Photon and suppressor height sights will not pose a problem. Models of the Photon holster will be available for popular pistols made by GLOCK®, SIG SAUER®, Smith & Wesson®, Springfield Armory®, and Taurus®.

Beretta®

For 2023, Beretta has a number of interesting products which have grabbed my attention. The new 80X Cheetah is an updated version of their classic .380 ACP, complete with features in demand today. A major deviation from the pack is that the Cheetah utilizes Beretta's X-treme DA/SA

Beretta's newest shotgun includes features such as enlarged controls, an enhanced loading port and a 7+1 shot extended magazine tube.

P&SN Presents Its 32nd Annual Roundup Covering New Firearms and Equipment of Most Interest to Law Enforcement

After a few lean years, the firearms industry has bounced back. The pandemic not only interrupted the supply chain, but an unprecedented demand for firearms from the general population pushed things to the brink. The end result was ammunition shortages and the unavailability of many types of firearms and other vital equipment used by law enforcement. While I don't expect prices to dip down to pre-pandemic levels, there is light at the end of the tunnel. Common types of ammunition such as 9mm, .40 S&W and .45 ACP are now available. Don't expect next day delivery like in the not so distant past, but if you are patient and plan accordingly, you shouldn't run out. The same can be said for most of the popular firearms used by the police.

As in most years, a great many new firearms were introduced at the 2023 SHOT Show held in Las Vegas. There were, however, a few notable offerings which hit market in the months prior to the show. What follows is a rundown of some new products which might be of interest to the law enforcement professional.

trigger as opposed to a striker-fired system which dominates the market. Personally, with appendix inside the waistband carry, I'm a lot more comfortable with a DA/SA trigger than the short trigger action of a striker-fired gun. The 80X Cheetah uses a Vertec-style grip frame; is optics ready; and also sports an accessory rail for mounting a compact illuminator. Despite its 13+1 capacity, the 80X is suitable for those with smaller hands.

Another new pistol from Beretta is the APX A1 Full Size Tactical. The A1 Tactical features an OD green polymer frame, suppressor height sights and a threaded barrel. Like many modern pistols designed for the police mission, it is optics ready and is shipped with three 21 round magazines.

A new product from Beretta which really raced my motor was the A300 Ultima Patrol Shotgun. One could make a good case that the Beretta 1301 is the best autoloading shotgun available for law enforcement applications, but there is no getting around the fact that it is a somewhat pricey firearm. Beretta used the proven A300 platform to come up with a more economical alternative without compromising features. The best news of all is that it can be had for at least $500 less than the 1301.

The new Ultima Patrol shotgun is gas operated, boasts a 7+1 capacity and good sights along with M-LOK and QD sling attachment points. Vital controls are oversized for easier manipulation under high stress, along with an enlarged loading port. One of my pet peeves has long been that most off-the-rack shotguns have an overly long buttstock, but the Ultima Patrol has a reduced 13 inch length of pull which will make it far more manageable. The A300 Ultima Tactical Patrol strikes the ideal balance between price and highly desirable features.

Bersa

Bersa is best known for its line of auto-pistols and have long been a best buy for the money. Best of all, they have been able to do this without compromising quality in any way. Several years ago, I had the opportunity to evaluate the Bersa BP 9 and came away very impressed.

The big surprise this year is that they have recently introduced a couple of different AR pattern rifles. The two rifles are essentially the same except for the furniture. One sports a buttstock and fore grip from Mission First Tactical while the other is outfitted by Magpul. In creating these rifles, Bersa utilized a 16 inch barrel with a 1:7 twist. The barrel is made of 4150 chrome moly vanadium complete with an A2 flash hider. The upper and lower receivers are crafted from 7075 aluminum and are finished with a Type III hard coated anodizing to stand up to the elements.

These rifles are made in Bersa's new facility in Kennesaw, GA, and represent a good value. In addition to BAR15 rifles, Bersa is also turning out AR pattern pistols in 9mm and 5.56mm with a rifle in .300 Blackout to follow shortly.

Canik

Without question, small, easily concealable pistols chambered in 9mm remain the hottest ticket in the firearms market. These pistols are widely used by law enforcement personnel for off duty carry, covert operations or by plainclothes investigators.

NEW GUNS AND GEAR FOR 2023

The new Mete MC9 Micro Compact weighs in at 21.2 ounces.

One of the bigger surprises in recent years has been the success of Canik, a Turkish manufacturer which has built a reputation for well designed handguns at a very good price point. A new addition to the extensive Canik line is the Mete MC9 Micro Compact. Measuring just a tad over six inches, the Mete MC9 packs a load of desirable attributes in an easy to hide package.

Like other micro compacts, this little blaster is chambered in 9mm which delivers greater stopping potential than .380 ACP or .38 Special. Two magazines are included – one with a 12 round capacity and another which holds 15 rounds. The MC9 Micro Compact is outfitted with an accessory rail for an illuminator or laser and is optics ready with 100% cowitness capability. To further sweeten the package, Canik includes a magazine loader, punch, an IWB holster, and three different size backstraps for optimum fit to the hand. With a MSRP of $439.99, it is a steal.

The new FN® 545™ Tactical provides 18+1 rounds of .45 ACP from an extended magazine.

FN®

FN America, a subsidiary of FN Herstal, S.A., knocked it out of the park a few years ago with the introduction of the 509® line of striker-fired pistols. The FN 509 has gone on to great success in the law enforcement market and has been adopted as the standard pistol of the Los Angeles Police Department.

For 2023, FN has introduced the FN 510™ Tactical and FN 545™ Tactical in 10mm and .45 ACP, respectively. These new pistols build on those same quality features which have made the FN 509 a hit, but in a slightly larger, more powerful delivery system ideally suited to the tactical operator.

Both pistols utilize a 4.71 inch long barrel with a threaded muzzle for the mounting of suppressors or compensators. The FN 510 tips the scales at 32 ounces while the .45 ACP variant weighs an ounce less. Magazine capacities are very generous and the FN 510 ships with a 15 and 22 round unit and the FN 545 boasts 15 and 18 round capacities. These pistols come with a MIL-STD rail and a slide cut for optics along with four mounting plates. Tritium lamp steel dovetail sights will cowitness with most MRDS optics. Trigger weight is in the six pound range with a clean break. Agencies in need of an ergonomic, hard-hitting pistol would do well to consider these new big bores from FN.

GLOCK®

GLOCK remains the 800 pound gorilla in the law enforcement market and they continue to hold a lead on all of their competitors in the polymer frame, striker-fired sweepstakes. While there were no totally new designs introduced this year, GLOCK will make their G47 MOS available. First made exclusively for the United States Customs and Border Protection (CBP) in 2019, the G47 MOS is essentially a Gen5® G17 with a shortened dustcover.

trigger on a GLOCK pistol with a match grade 1911, I find it perfectly suitable for law enforcement applications. For several years, there has been a cottage industry building aftermarket triggers with a cleaner, lighter stroke. GLOCK has now cut in on that action and introduced the Performance Trigger. This new trigger is flat faced and designed to improve the accuracy of Gen5 GLOCK pistols while maintaining the safety standards of the GLOCK Safe Action system. I have not yet had the opportunity to try it so I really can't say if it is more appropriate for sport shooting or law enforcement application, but it will be available for your consideration.

Heckler & Koch

While there were no new pistols from Heckler & Koch this year, there were still a couple of exciting developments. The HK® VP9 is a highly regarded striker-fired pistol and has gone on to become one of the most popular offerings the firm has ever produced. So, how can they make a great pistol even better? New this year is a VP9 complete with a Holosun SCS red dot sight. This indeed would be a great package for patrol or tactical ops.

The HK P30 has built a solid reputation over the years for both reliability and durability. With interchangeable backstraps and side panels, the P30 can be configured to fit the complete range of hand sizes and would be my top choice for a double-action duty pistol. Recently, HK partnered with Langdon Tactical Technologies to work their magic on the P30 as well as the HK P2000. Over the past few years, Ernest Langdon has enhanced the capabilities of several different popular pistols and there is no doubt applying his genius to the HK line will result in a world class firearm. There are several different package options available, including slide cuts for the mounting of red dot optics. It goes without saying that trigger actions will be superb.

Jacob Grey Firearms

Jacob Grey Firearms is a South Carolina-based manufacturer of AR rifles, 1911

pistols and firearm accessories. Their claims to fame are the tight tolerances and quality control carried over from their experience in manufacturing aircraft parts for the aerospace industry. After having the opportunity to examine some of their newest offerings, I can confirm that they have indeed achieved a high level of craftsmanship.

The Ultralight STO-5 from Jacob Grey is very accurate and reliable.

Jacob Grey's new Ultralight STO-5 (Special Tactical Operator) features 7075 billet aluminum construction which makes it lightweight, yet solid and highly accurate. Built with a 10.5" barrel, it can be chambered in 5.56 or .300 Blackout and includes a highly polished DLC bolt carrier group and a tactical quad rail for add-on accessories. The Ultralight Operator SBR incorporates a lengthy list of quality components such as a .750 low profile adjustable gas block, carbine buffer and spring; a Magpul MOE+® rubberized grip; BCMGUNFIGHTER™ stock; and more. The included accessories are numerous as well: an EOTECH EXPS3™ holographic sight and G43 3X magnifier; a KGM R6 suppressor; and a Surefire Scout Light®, among others.

Mossberg®

Although many of us associate Mossberg with their extensive line of pump and semiauto shotguns, they make some great rifles suitable for law enforcement applications. The Mossberg Patriot line of bolt action rifles was introduced a few years back and the latest variant is sure to please. New for 2023, the Mossberg Patriot LR (Long Range) Tactical Rifle is loaded with features to appeal to discriminating users and will not disappoint. Three different options will be offered including 6.5 Creedmoor and .308 Winchester with a 22 inch barrel and 6.5 PRC with a 24 inch barrel.

The Patriot LR is outfitted with a medium bull carbon steel barrel finished in matte blue and the muzzle is threaded for affixing a suppressor. Like other rifles in the Patriot line, it utilizes the LBA trigger with a two to seven pound adjustment range. The bolt handle is oversize for easier manipulation of the fluted smooth cycling bolt. The Patriot LT sits in a MDT Field Stock aluminum chassis with V-block aluminum bedding for stability and it is fed by a metal AICS detachable magazine. The sum total of this package will no doubt yield superior, consistent downrange performance.

PTR

PTR has been building quality firearms for 15 years now and their new PTR 63 may be the most appealing offering to date. Based on the proven HK roller delayed blowback design chambered for 5.56 mm NATO round, this rifle has much to offer. In many ways, the PTR spin on this classic rifle design incorporates several improvements over the original format. This action type defines robust and has proved super reliable in the harshest environments for over 60 years. With a little maintenance, it should prove to be relatively cop proof.

Key features include a collapsible stock and a seven inch Picatinny rail on top of the receiver for mounting optics. An AR style handgrip is standard and the PTR 63 can utilize any AR type magazine. Metal parts are powder coated over Parkerizing and the handguard has M-LOK slots for affixing lights and other accessories. Users who have logged considerable time on a HK MP5 SMG will find the controls on the PTR 63 to be intuitive.

Safariland®

For many years, Safariland has been on the cutting edge of duty holster technology. Their innovative designs continue to dominate the police market to the point where it's unusual to see a uniformed officer wearing anything but a Safariland holster. For 2023, Safariland has introduced a real game changer which will set the standard for years to come.

In a few short years, weapon mounted lights have become commonplace for patrol officers. More recently, there has been significant interest in Miniature Red Dot Sights (MRDS) for law enforcement officers which require a specialized duty holster. As more and more companies jump into the illuminator and MRDS market, the challenge to holster manufacturers is readily apparent. Exactly how do you build a holster which can accommodate a wide range of illuminators and red dot sights?

The new SafariVault™ duty holster effectively addresses those issues. It not only accommodates a pistol with just about any of the popular weapon mounted lights, but also most red dot sights with both open and closed emitters. Best of all, this is an especially rugged holster with increased structural integrity throughout the entire design. Much like other designs in Safariland's extensive duty holster line, the new SafariVault uses the proven ALS®/SLS™ security system. Officers who have trained and utilized one of the earlier designs with the ALS/SLS will have no trouble at all adapting to the SafariVault. The ALS feature has been beefed up with a more prominent lever which makes for an even more efficient presentation of the pistol from the holster.

Upon examination, even the most casual observer will note that this is one tough holster. Internal locking components protect the security devices from impact and the elements and a trigger guard stabilization mechanism prevents movement of the pistol within the holster. An open muzzle design allows clearance of threaded barrels and also allows debris and water to pass through.

The initial run of SafariVault holsters will be for GLOCK Gen5 pistols with models for the SIG SAUER P320 family to follow. I would expect variants for other popular duty pistols to come on line very soon.

Smith & Wesson

Smith & Wesson has moved into some new territory with the introduction of a 5.7 x 28mm pistol in the popular M&P® family. Externally, this new variant looks very much like the other pistols in the line, but incorporates an entirely new operating system. The M&P5.7 uses something entirely different called the Tempo™ Barrel System which is a gas-operated locked breech design. Developed to harness the speed of the 5.7 x 28mm cartridge, this system is mated to a five inch barrel to maximize its capabilities.

The M&P5.7 is slide cut for the mounting of optics, has a Picatinny rail for the mounting of accessories, such as white lights or lasers, and has a threaded muzzle with a thread protector. Two magazines with a generous 22 round capacity are standard.

Smith & Wesson has enjoyed great success with their Shield line of pistols and this year they will be offering an entirely new micro pistol. Like most of the contemporary hideouts, the Equalizer is chambered for the world standard 9mm Parabellum. The slide and barrel are crafted from stainless steel and wear a durable Armorlite finish and the frame is made of polymer. While there are some qualities similar to the Shield line, this is an entirely new pistol. It is a single-action design with a crisp trigger and an audible reset which will allow shooters to perform to a very high level. A quality first pioneered with the Shield is EZ rack technology which makes manually manipulating the slide less of a chore and prominent slide serrations fore and aft allow one to get a positive grip.

The Equalizer is slide cut for the mounting of an optic and a rail is molded into the frame for affixing an illuminator. Three magazines with 10, 13 and 15 round capacities are included in the package. While I have yet to log any range time with the Equalizer, a few seasoned shooters in my network feel this is the best micro pistol S&W has produced to date.

Springfield Armory®

Springfield Armory has enjoyed great success with some of their recent product introductions and their latest offerings will ensure that trend will continue. Last summer, Springfield Armory introduced the 1911 DS Prodigy™, a high capacity 9mm pistol which takes the proven 1911 to a new level of performance.

Springfield Armory® recently announced that its 1911 DS Prodigy™ pistol has successfully passed a 10,000 round torture test, with every round documented on video.

To enhance accuracy potential, Springfield Armory went with a match grade, stainless steel barrel for the Prodigy. The slide is made of rugged forged steel while the receiver is a hybrid crafted from steel with a polymer grip frame. This not only keeps the weight of the total package down, but also keeps grip circumference to manageable levels. A 17 round magazine and a 20 round magazine are included in the basic package and a 26 round magazine is available as an aftermarket accessory.

Two basic models of this double stack 1911 are available. They include one with a five inch barrel and another with a 4.25 inch Commander-size tube. Like many popular pistols, the slide is cut for an optic and a rail for the mounting of a white light or laser is standard. In fact, one can order the Prodigy complete with a HEX Dragonfly red dot sight. Plates are available from Springfield Armory for other popular optics. Standard factory sights include a U-notch rear and a green fiber-optic front for quick target acquisition.

Despite the popularity of the various polymer frame striker-fired guns in law enforcement, there are still those who prefer the 1911 above anything else. The Prodigy packs a load of features into a proven design and stands as a best buy to other pistols in its class.

The SAINT® Victor Carbine utilizes a Forward Blast Diverter which is recessed under the full-length handguard.

Another addition to the line is a SAINT® Victor 9mm Carbine. Pistol caliber carbines are very popular in some competitive shooting sports; however, some police agencies also utilize them. Externally, the 9mm variant looks very much like the 5.56mm SAINT rifles, but it is in fact a very different cat. Unlike the 5.56 mm carbines, the 9mm version is blowback rather than gas-operated which makes perfect sense for a pistol caliber. It also utilizes a dedicated 9mm lower receiver which eliminates the need for magwell adapters. The Victor 9mm feeds from Colt pattern 32 round magazines for reliability.

The free-float handguard has multiple M-LOK attachment points for affixing accessories and Springfield Armory's flip sights are included in the package. The ambidextrous safety is also sure to please left-hand users. A 9mm carbine may not fit into every department's game plan, but PCCs can still fill a useful niche. With its wide range of desirable features, the new Victor is clearly one of the best of the breed.

New High Performance Rifle-rated Ballistic Shield

BlueRidge Armor has introduced the new VENGEANCE™ X7, a hard armor ballistic, rifle-rated shield featuring the latest developments in armor technology. Showcased at SHOT Show 2023, the X7 is the first hard armor ballistic shield independently tested to various RF1 performance requirements set forth in the recently released ASTM ballistic shield test protocol.

Manufactured from a high performance, lightweight ballistic composite, this new shield delivers both improved balance and center of gravity. The new X7 features a streamlined design which curves around the user providing higher coverage. The patented VENGEANCE viewport provides a ballistic bezel system which allows wide field of view and it also features an Elzetta EZH-R integrated rifle LED lighting system.

New Rifle Sight

The new SCRS (Solar Charging Rifle Sight) advances Holosun's SCS technology, creating a new, ultracompact 20mm tube sight designed for rifle applications. The SCRS features multidirectional light sensors and an advanced Auto Mode for automatic reticle intensity settings and Manual Mode for manual control of dot intensity. The SCRS is made from 7075 aluminum and utilizes Holosun's 509T footprint for compatibility with third-party offset RDS mounts. The SCRS is available with a 2MOA dot or MRS (Multi-Reticle System) in red or green models.

New Red Dot Sight: MEPRO TRU-VISION™

The MIL-SPEC MEPRO TRU-VISION red dot sight is shockproof, waterproof and durable. Its short length, compact and lightweight design addresses the need for comounting multiple tactical devices. It provides thousands of operating hours from a single CR123 standard battery.

Sixteen selectable brightness settings are available: 12 for daytime, four for night vision using Gen II and Gen II NVG ANVIS tubes, allowing users to adjust to changing light conditions in ambiances of brighter light or subdued lighting. The TRU-VISION also features an automatic brightness control system.

Its large nonreflective display window and clearly defined two MOA red dot reticle ensure rapid target acquisition with both eyes open and unlimited field of view while remaining parallax free. Elevation and windage adjustments are 0.5 MOA per click.

It is also equipped with a low battery indicator, a light sensor and an automatic brightness control system, enabling clear reticle visibility in all lighting conditions.

Tactical Communication Accessories

Most communication accessories for two-way radios and cellular devices are either professional-grade for uses in commercial sectors and surveillance, or tactical-grade for SWAT, law enforcement, military, and other operations. Though some companies make both, PRYME is one of the rare few who not only manufactures a complete line of tactical and pro-grade products, but also makes professional accessories which are upgradable to heavy-duty tactical versions.

For example, PRYME's PATRIOT™ behind-the-head boom mic headset can be upgraded to heavy-duty and the Hockey Puck PTT (Push-To-Talk) is offered in both professional-grade and waterproof tactical versions. The PTT Switch is especially unique in that it enables you to communicate via a microphone or headset with the press of a button. This is particularly important for those wearing HAZMAT suits or for SWAT teams who can push the button with an elbow while keeping a finger on the trigger.

The tactical kits police and SWAT teams demand most are PRYME's Dual-Bone Conduction Headset and the GLADIATOR™ Throat Microphone as they pick up sound directly from the user's skull or throat and block ambient noise. The Bone Conduction Headset also works with PRYME's upgradable tactical PTT system with multiple switches, including the Hockey Puck, Large Hockey Puck and belt mounted Junction Box.

Lightweight 3D Targets

Manufactured from durable cardboard materials, 3D target kits from Target Nation® offer greater realism, as well as being lightweight and easily transportable. These targets allow users to change out facial overlays, cardboard weaponry and incorporate vital organ overlays inside of each target. As these targets are three-dimensional, they can be angled to show realistic impacts on a simulated “bad guy.”

These targets fit all conventional target stands or come with a sturdy cardboard stand which also folds flat.

New Level III+ Armor Plate

Spartan Armor Systems® has recently introduced its new Hercules LITE RF2 Level III+/RF2 rated armor plate. The Hercules LITE is engineered to stop M80 Ball and advanced threats such as M855.

This new intermediate plate provides protection against non-armor piercing threats in a lightweight platform. At just four pounds per plate, the Hercules LITE allows the operator to maintain agility and ease of movement. Despite the lightweight configuration, the Hercules LITE still meets NIJ standards for backface deformation which is designed to limit the effects of blunt force trauma.

In addition to its true multicurve design, the Hercules LITE provides full edge-to-edge coverage in a SAPI medium 9.5" x 12.5" design with a one inch thickness profile.

Season Two of The Debrief Announced

Following the success of its first season, The Debrief with Jon Becker came back for season two which started February 1, 2023. The new season will feature interviews of Medal of Honor Recipient MSgt. Earl Plumlee debriefing his actions on August 28, 2013, in Afghanistan; RCMP Inspector Kevin Cyr discussing RCMP-ERT and tactical decision making; Chief Phil Hansen on the history of LASD-SEB and modern leadership challenges; as well as an operator from Brigade de Recherche et d'intervention (BRI) with a firsthand debrief of the Paris Bataclan hostage rescue. Those are just a few of the guests for season two.

Based on feedback from listeners, The Debrief will move from a primarily video to primarily audio format for season two. The majority of The Debrief audience listens to the show rather than watches it and, by moving to an audio first format, the show will be able to record remote episodes which will provide for a greater breadth of guests. The primary video format will still be used in certain episodes, but audio will be the primary focus. This change of format will not, however, affect the streaming platforms on which the show is available.

Jon Becker, host of The Debrief, shared his thoughts on season two, "I am very excited for season two. We are so grateful to our audience for the support they have given and this season we are planning to take The Debrief to an even higher level. I am privileged to share the stories of amazing people, as well as to explore the issues facing tactical law enforcement. We have amazing guests lined up for this season and we are going to probe some very challenging topics."

Since the release of the podcast's first season in June 2022, it has received incredible reviews and accolades including winning a prestigious Muse Award. The Debrief has been covered on other podcasts including CATO, Tactical Breakdown, NPA's Policing Matters, and on The Blue Line. The Debrief has also been featured in Police and Security News and on Police1.com.

The Debrief is available wherever you find your podcasts, including Spotify, Apple®, Youtube, and Amazon. New episodes launch on the first of each month. Visit thedebrief.live to stay updated on the latest episodes as they are released.

BUSTED!

JAMES L. MCCLINTON, PH.D.

It's shocking – criminals will break the law even while in court... A Georgia man and a fellow codefendant are facing new allegations that they conducted a hand-to-hand drug deal inside the courtroom while jury selection was taking place. Courtroom surveillance footage shows the alleged drug deal, with one man sliding something into the other man's hands. A deputy spotted the transaction and confiscated what was later determined to be a Percocet pill. Deputies reportedly found Percocet, marijuana, tobacco, and other contraband wrapped in plastic on one of the men. The Fulton County District Attorney's Office says any charging decision for the incident will be made after a full investigation. (At least they did the crime right in the courthouse which saves the need for a warrant.)

This gives new meaning to the term jailbird... A birdbrained suspect was recently detained after authorities discovered the presence of a backpack. The suspect, a pigeon, was detained in a Canadian prison after it was discovered to be carrying a backpack which contained crystal meth. The bird was captured at the Pacific Institution correctional facility near Vancouver after officers noticed the flying felon and its cargo. Prison staff members set a trap and caught the foul fowl, after spotting the backpack on the bird. Prison authorities are worried that the incident reveals an evolving trend of smuggling narcotics into prisons and are conducting an investigation. (Next assignment: locating a stool pigeon.)

This smooth criminal is now in a jam... TSA officers at JFK Airport recently dealt with a sticky situation. A Rhode Island man was stopped after passing his carry-on baggage through an X-ray unit. The X-ray machine immediately revealed that he was carrying two jars of peanut butter, each containing parts of a disassembled semiautomatic handgun. The .22 caliber gun parts were wrapped in plastic and the gun's magazine was loaded. Port Authority Police confiscated the items and arrested him. It is legal to transport your gun on an airplane, but you must follow strict security protocols. (Talk about a jarring discovery!)

It always feels good to be wanted... A Georgia man is behind bars after questioning why he wasn't among the most wanted people in his county. The Rockdale County

REAL STORIES OF GENUINE ABSURDITY

If you're going to be a porch pirate, the least you could do is wear an eye patch...

The Tulsa Police Department (TPD) arrested an alleged "Porch Pirate with an unusual and questionably effective mask." An officer recognized the suspect from previous porch pirate cases when the suspect was wearing women's underwear as a mask. According to TPD, they went to the suspect's home, west of downtown Tulsa, knocked on the door, and saw the suspect inside. Police said the man remained inside the home and would not talk to officers. A search warrant for the home was obtained and signed. After the warrant was executed, "Long John Silver" exited the home and was arrested. (He didn't speak because he was thong-tied.)

Sheriff's Office had posted a list of their ten "most wanted" violent offenders on social media. Just a few hours after making the post, the man entered the comment section and asked, "How about me?" The sheriff's office replied to his comment stating, "You are correct. You have two warrants – we are on the way." Shortly afterwards, the sheriff's office made another post showing the man being arrested while seemingly wearing the same clothes as his profile photo. He is currently being held on two charges of felony probation violation. (If he had only waited, he probably would have moved from number 11 to number 10.)

It sounds like you both have seen too many Fast and Furious movies... Two Missouri individuals are facing various charges after stealing from a clothing store in Springfield. But, there's more to the story. The Springfield Police Department reports that the two thieves stole merchandise from the Ross Dress for Less store and, in their haste to make a quick getaway, the thieves crashed their cars into each other. After these goofballs hit each other, the thieves fled on foot, but were quickly located by officers and placed under arrest. (How do you explain this to your insurance company?)

I thought only birds were that dumb... A 17-year-old Washington state man was caught on video running into a plate glass window as he attempted to get away with stolen goods, knocking himself unconscious. The robbery happened in broad daylight at a Louis Vuitton store in Bellevue. The suspect grabbed handbags off of displays and tried to dart out of the store, police said. The thief blew it as he tried to flee, knocking himself out by running into a plate glass window. More than 50 repeat offenders have reportedly been arrested in Bellevue for retail robbery and shoplifting and the county has charged 59 organized retail theft cases so far this year. (After that, the window cleaner should definitely get a raise.)

Next up – DIY speed bumps!... Residents of the Capitol Hill area of Seattle recently took matters into their own hands after failing to get any satisfaction from the city. Someone painted a crosswalk at an intersection, but the Seattle Department of Transportation quickly removed the unauthorized stripes saying, "Improperly painted crosswalks give a false sense of safety which puts pedestrians in danger. There are better ways for people to work with us." The coleader of Central Seattle Greenways called it "frustrating" that the city can move so quickly to remove the rogue crosswalk, but "it can take years, if not decades, or never, frankly, to get crosswalks and other safety improvements installed." (Odd that SDOT has the resources to remove a citizen painted crosswalk within 24 hours.) P&SN
